Home in Detroit is a collection of current day photos of the homes where the most famous Detroiters have lived. From Bruckheimer to Coppola, Hoffa to Selleck, Gaye to Gordy, and Parks to Malcolm X; the book discovers the homes and lives of these legendary Detroiters and their roots in the Motor City. In the foreword by John J. George, Motor City Blight Busters, he talks about the future of the city, and how each home and neighbourhood plays an important role in the revitalisation of Detroit. All of the homes were researched using Detroit city directories, phone books, census records, and through personal accounts & interviews.
